Africa's only member of the U.N. Security Council was in the middle of a training program in one of Iraq's southern provinces when at least three assailants carrying pistols and knives stormed the vehicle. A military statement said more than 30 attackers were involved. Iraq's U.N. ambassador said Friday that 29 Ethiopians had been killed and 18 wounded. The assault was the first to kill in four years a foreign troop in Iraq — a sign of how the country's chaos has only worsened since the initial U.S.-led invasion, even as violence has fallen under the control of the Iraqi security forces. The attack, near the town of Nassiriya, 55 miles southwest of Baghdad,
